Interest of the second of the both. This road will undoubtedly be built and open to the market some of the richest coal and iron lands of West Vircinia.

The mines at present opened are the No. 1 and 2 Big Vein in the Elk Garden region. Kindly heralded by Capt. George W. Harrison, Superintendent of the W. Va., C. & P., whose kindness and generosity only increase with years, and Col. T. B. Davis, whose kindness I resember, I took the train for Elk Garden early one morning. At Shaw we switched off and ran two miles up a grade of 169 feet to the mile, to the tiple of No. 1. Superintendent A. C. Ramling received me here and took the greatest care possible of me for the three days I spent with him. The incline to No. 1 mine is 1,500 feet long, rigged with the latest machinery. From the top of the incline to the mouth of the mine is a distance of one mile. The coal is hauled this mile on a narrow gauge road by steam. No. 2 mine is a mile below No. 1 and is reached by an incline 2,352 feet long, similarly rigged to No. 1. Va., C. & P., whose kindness and generoslarly rigged to No. 1. A BIG SEAM.

The mines are managed in a manner befitting the vein. Two tracks run through the main entry, and at a distance of 1,000 feet cross entries are driven on each side. The coal lies in a seam from fourteen feet to sixteen feet thick, fourteen feet being about the average thickness mined. It is a soft, bituminous coal, easily mined without any shooting, used for steam purposes and finds a market in the East. The miners are paid fifty cents per ton, and an average day's work is from $2.50 to $3.00. The mine cars hold two tons, and a person can readily ride on top of a loaded car without fear of having he head broken. In parts of the mine the drainage is not the best, but is being rapidly remedied. The mine being so new, this could be expected.

parts of the mine the drainage is not the best, but is being rapidly remedied. The mine being so new, this could be expected. The ventilation is good, and by natural openings. According to Mine Inspector Vezzy's instructions, though, furnaces will be built. The average output of the two mines is from thirteen to fifteen hundred tons per day. Two hundred and forty miners are employed, twonty horses and twenty drivers. William Byers is mine boss of No. 1 mine, and Isaish Fenton of No. 2. The coal is free from impurities, containing only one seam of slate from two to three inchest hick.

NO END OF COAL.

The deposit lies in knolls separate from each other, and the company has in this Elk Garden tract about 700 acres of this coal. Underlying the big vein are two workshle veins of the same kind of coal.

One six fast thick the other four. So this workable veins of the same kind of coal. One six feet thick, the other four. So this industry in this section is assured for years.

All along the line of the road, though, fine deposits of coal are found, and I predict that while the West Virginia Central & Pennsylvania railway may never be a trunk line, yet it will be one of the best coal and timber roads in the country.

ELE GARDEN TOWN. Elk Garden, the town, is a thriving little village, having two or three grocery and dry goods and a drug store. The most striking house in the village is "the cottage." Built in Oneen Anne's style and furnished Built in Queen Anne's style and furnished in natural woods, ite gable and colored windows are a surprise to the visitor. Twenty-three hundred feet above tide water, the scene from one of its porches is beautiful in the extreme. High above the surrounding mountains, excepting "the peak," one can look down into ravines and gorges, over and over the mountains, till at list they are lost in the deep blue of the horizon. To the west of the cottage flows the south brauch of the Patemac, and you look down nearly a precipitous mountain. look down nearly a precipitous mountain to where the river flows around its base a silver band making a perfect horse shoe bown to its very edge comes the growth of the wilderness, broken only by the parallel bands which foretell the coming of allet bands which foretell the coming of civilization.

I stood at one of the western windows of "the cottage" with Mr. Rawlings one evening and watched the course of a snow squall, further away to the west. We followed it as eduled and dashed up and down the gorges till at last it was lost in the twilight away off to the north, and I then understood and felt the motto of our State.

IMPROVED CATTLE CARS.

The United States law to protect animals during transportation by rail provides that, when they are carried in casts in which they can be feel, where de, and have rest, its requirement that animals shall be unloaded every 28 hours, and then have a rest of a hours, shell not apply to animals in such cars. The law prevents staryation and too long confinement in carso far as it is obveed by the fallicul Compunits, and its existence and emforcement are of the first necessity while the common as a kear-are used, but the reloading at the fallicul Compunits, and its existence and emforcement are of the first necessity while the common as a kear-are used, but the reloading at the being cast first phattened with much entely, it while the common are considered with much cars, where they have already so suffered, without blows, or worse.

To meet this want of an improved car the American Humane was craition othered a prize of five thousand dollass ($5,009) for such a car in 1889, to stimulate the inventive shilly of the country. One of its conditions was that the putents on the approved car should be given to the Association, that the car might be offered to the railroad companies by it free from earl, ea of royalty.
